Hi Michelle,

All I have is a little correspondence about it. I imagine I passed this on to you for her and suggested she might submit directly to these two editors? I'm sorry not to be of more help. I thoroughly checked the right geological layer of my archive and our back and forth is gone gone gone. I'm curious as to why you wanted it?

[REDACTED]

Lots of love,

Lucy

Hi Lucy - I'm just getting to this now but on what I've read I think your friend has something here. I need to read more though. I like the sparse style and it's really atmospheric. Is it with an agent? R

Hey Lucy,

My readers LOVE this so far - I'm going to read over the weekend.
Hope Frankfurt is being kind to you - you always have lovely hair.

Hi Lucy,

I'm not sure you ever communicated with her directly. Her name is Lynne Freeman and her e-mail is lynnef@gci.net. Her book was called "Blue Moon Rising."

I did a purge, too.

Thanks for looking when you have a chance.

XO,

Michelle

Hello! What is her name or do you have an email address for her, even better? That will really help. I'm unlikely to find my original email with you as I did a big purge of personal correspondence from my work email a few years ago. Xoxo

Hi Lucy,

By any chance, do you have any of the e-mails we exchanged regarding my friend's manuscript so many years ago? I deleted all those e-mails and am sure that you did, too, but If you have them, could you please forward them to me? Especially the one of me forwarding the manuscript to me and your response.

XO,

Michelle
